Farmers Markets in Loudoun

Loudoun's Farmers' Markets provide an opportunity to purchase the freshest fruits, vegetables, baked goods, eggs, meats, cut flowers and other locally produced products along with a great way for individuals to support local agriculture by purchasing items grown right here in Loudoun and surrounding counties. The Markets sell many organic and chemical free items as well as heirloom vegetables not commonly available in the grocery store and you will enjoy a social shopping experience where you can actually talk to the farmers who grow the food that you buy.

The Loudoun Valley HomeGrown Markets Association sponsors the seven Farmers Markets in Loudoun County. These are HomeGrown, Producer Only Markets meaning that the people selling you the food are the people who grow the food. They stand behind their products 100%. If an item you purchased wasn't fresh or was damaged in some way they will replace it or refund you for your purchase.

By buying your fruits, vegetables, meats and eggs at the Farmers Markets you are supporting local agriculture. That means you are also getting the very freshest produce possible as many crops are picked and brought to market within 24 hours.

Loudoun County Producer Organizations

Loudoun Cattlemen's Association

www.loudouncattlemen.org

30B Catoctin Circle, SE

Leesburg VA 20175

Loudoun County has a long and rich tradition of producing prized beef breeding stock and cattle to be fed in commercial feedlots. The rolling hills, clean water, and abundant grasses make Loudoun County a perfect setting for raising beef cattle. Loudoun is one of the top 10 cattle producing counties in Virginia, and maintains a herd of 34,000 head (USDA Ag census).

The Loudoun Cattlemen's Association was formed in 2004 to promote the production and tradition of raising beef cattle in and around Loudoun County. Cattle producers are working to collectively promote opportunities of networking, marketing, and education. The Association is supported by Loudoun Department of Economic Development and Loudoun Cooperative Extension. The Association has an elected Board of Directors, and functions through a committee structure (membership and promotion, beef products marketing, live animal marketing, and association bylaws).

The Association is open to any person interested in beef production. Annual dues of $25.00/person are used to support educational programs and trips, and promotion of the local beef industry. Members are encouraged to participate in cooperative purchasing of minerals and supplies. The Association sponsors a "clearinghouse" of Loudoun cattle for sale, including: feeder calves for grazing, breeding stock, and freezer meat.

The Association website (www.loudouncattlemen.org) provides information about the local cattle industry, hints on buying a freezer beef, lists sources of breeding stock, and a calendar of beef related activities.

Loudoun Christmas Tree Growers Association

The association brings together growers for the purpose of learning more about successful tree growing and marketing techniques. They conduct field trips to discuss new production methods, instruct new producers on proper shearing and prepare field trials of tree varieties. Networking with other growers leads to cooperative purchasing and cooperative advertising. For information contact the Department of Economic Development, 1 Harrison Street, Leesburg, VA 20175 (703-777-0426).

Loudoun Horse Association

The Loudoun Horse Association serves as a resource for local horse owners and the Loudoun horse service industry by promoting the benefits of horse ownership, networking and fellowship to interested individuals. The association strives to improve communications, coordination of educational activities/events, and development of the critical industry related infrastructure to meet the needs of Loudoun horse producers. For more information, go to www.loudounhorseassociation.org.

Loudoun Valley Sheep Producers Association

The Loudoun Valley Sheep Producers Association exists to promote and support the Northern Virginia area's farm flocks, providing education on all sheep issues including health, management and marketing; promoting lamb and wool; encouraging and mentoring youth and promoting fellowship and comraderie among the members. A 2006/2007 Directory provides a listing of local sheep farms and their shepherds, sheep breeds, meat, fleeces, breeding stock, and other products and services. For more information, contact LVSPA, PO Box 2994, Leesburg VA 20177 or visit www.loudounvalleysheep.org.

Loudoun Winegrowers Association

Many of the existing wineries and independent vineyards belong to the Loudoun Winegrowers Association. The mission of the Loudoun Winegrowers Association (LWA) is to exchange information about grape growing and winemaking; to promote the Loudoun wine industry; to share supplies, equipment, and labor; and to represent the local wine industry before government agencies and the public.

The Loudoun Winegrowers Association brings wine grape growers and winery owners together to advance their mutual interests. They share knowledge about Loudoun's soils and climate, learn new grape-growing and wine-making techniques from Virginia Tech and County Extension experts, and gain greater appreciation of the joys and challenges of making great wine.

For more information call 703-771-1197 or email info@loudounwine.com or visit the website at www.loudounwine.com.

Loudoun Wineries Association

The Loudoun Wineries Association, a Virginia Corporation and a 501(c)(6) organization, promotes, supports and engages in activities that serve and advance the common business interests of the county's wineries. In essence, these interests are marketing and producing wine, growing grapes and imparting instruction in these areas. For more information on the Loudoun Wineries Association, call 703-777-8161.

Loudoun Wine Trail

Minutes from Dulles International Airport, as office buildings and suburban neighborhoods yield to tree-lined country roads and mountain views, Loudoun's wineries invite you to come and enjoy award-winning wines. In less than 25 years, Loudoun County's wineries have emerged as the leading Virginia producers of vinifera and New World grape wines. Soil conditions, temperate climate, access to technical experts and mentors, and skilled winemakers all contribute to Loudoun's growing reputation as "Wine Country."
